WM. BYRD HENRY CASES CLOSED

Young Lawyer who Stabbed Nine Persons at Hotel Gettysburg is Freed Completely. Seven Governors Ask for Clemency.

Governors, North and South, uniting to ask suspension of sentence in the case of William Byrd Henry, who stabbed nine persons in the Hotel Gettysburg during the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle last July, and forty or more others writing to tell of Henry's past exemplary life, Judge Swope on Monday granted their request and allowed the man to go upon payment of costs, declaring the unfortunate occurrence a calamity rather than a crime, and saying that he believed with many others that Henry was laboring under a temporary mental aberration when he made his reckless thrusts with a knife. Major R. R. Henry, the young man's father, was with him in Court.

Among those petitioning the Court to extend clemency toward Henry were Governor William Hodges Mann, of Virginia; Governor H. D. Hatfield, of West Virginia; Governor John K. Tener, of Pennsylvania; three former governors and the governor-elect of Virginia.

Governor Tener sent, as his special representative and as the representative of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg Commission, William M. Hargest, assistant attorney general of the State, who said that both the governor and the commission desired a suspension of sentence, feeling that the occurrence was a misfortune and that they would not wish any punishment imposed upon the young lawyer to mar the perfect record of the harmonious reunion.

Every one of the persons stabbed by Henry when he literally cut his way out of a brawl asked for suspension of sentence. Letters testifying to Mr. Henry's unblemished character and his success in his profession were read from Governors Mann and Hatfield, from Governor-Elect Henry C. Stuart, of Virginia, and from these three former governors, J. Hoke Tyler, C. A. Swanson, and A. J. Montague. In addition there were letters read from General J. Thompson Brown, commanding the Virginia Division of United Confederate Veterans, General Bowling, of Virginia and Congressman Butler, Assistant United States District Attorney John Hall, and William A. Glasgow, of Philadelphia. As many more communications from men of prominence asking the Court for suspension of sentence were produced and as a closing argument Henry's counsel presented a powerful appeal from Samuel W. Williams, attorney general of the State of Virginia, paying a high tribute to the man and his father and asking for clemency.

The array of letters produced in Henry's behalf was declared by Mr. Hargest to be the most remarkable that he had ever seen in Court while Judge Swope said that the testimonial to the young man's past life and character could not be higher than that brought out in the letters read in Court.

After producing all these communications William Hersh and J. Donald Swope, Henry's attorneys, made an earnest plea for the man, calling attention to the fact that he had never been involved in any crime before, that his record was without blemish, his career a notable and honorable one and that there was no opposition from any source to sentence being suspended. In announcing that this was the decision of the Court Judge Swope, addressing Henry, said:

"Mr. Henry, you are not before the court as a criminal. You are here as a victim of unfortunate circumstances. This affair was a calamity rather than a crime. It was wise for you to enter a plea of guilty in these cases and yet I believe that if they had gone to trial the jury would have joined in the belief of Governor Tener, of the Battle Anniversary Commission and of the Court, that there was a temporary aberration of mind. We do not propose to send you to prison—not for a day. The County of Adams needs money but we don't want yours. We will not fine you but, upon your payment of the costs in the case, we will suspend sentence."

Immediately the young lawyer and his father were surrounded by friends who congratulated them heartily over the happy issue to the case. They have made many friends in Gettysburg since the event.

All those stabbed in the affair at the hotel have fully recovered from their injuries and all the civil suits brought

BUSINESS OF COUNTY COURT

Many Cases Disposed of at November Term of Court. Some are Continued. Other are Not Prossed. Some Pleaded Guilty.

A verdict of not guilty was returned this morning in the case of William Black who fired a number of shots in the bar-room of the City Hotel on the morning of September 9. He was charged with assault and battery with intent to commit murder. It was alleged at the time that he was shooting at Charles Tyson with whom he had had an argument earlier in the morning about some money. Black was caught north of town by Chief Shealer within a few hours after the affair. At to-day's trial it was shown that every shot fired was in an opposite direction from the location of Tyson. Black pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying concealed weapons. A number of criminal cases were disposed of at Monday's session of November Court.

Walter A. Small pleaded guilty to two charges of furnishing liquor on Sunday and was fined $50 and costs in each case. The license at the Valley View Hotel, Bittinger, where the infraction of the laws occurred, was revoked.

NEW LAW AFFECTS WOMEN OF TOWN

Waitresses at Students' Boarding Clubs may not Perform their Duties Seven Days of the Week, it is Declared. Others Affected.

The waitresses at student boarding houses, the operators at local telephone exchanges and women employed in the hotels in the various towns of the county are all said to be affected by the new women's employment law.

If the new law is enforced to the letter the boarding houses and the country hotels will be required to have corps of waitresses for their Sunday dinners entirely different from those who serve the meals on week days. Hundreds of small hotels throughout the state, including many which have made a specialty of "Sunday dinners" for automobile parties and commercial men who are out on the tours, will be affected by the new law, especially since it is the opinion of state officials that the law applies to hotel employees.

Under the new law a woman may not be employed more than six days a week and a decision recently given by the attorney general's department is to the effect that telephone operators may not be employed on Sundays, if they work on the other days of the week, even if the Sunday work would be only a few hours in a rotation system.

Numerous inquiries as to the effect of the new act on hotel employees are being made at the department of labor and industry, Harrisburg, and hotel and boarding house keepers who depend upon women to serve their meals and who have their own troubles in getting sufficient help, are in a state of anxiety as to what may result.

In some localities where the "Sunday dinners" are well patronized by local people and by the traveling and automobiling public the hotel managers have arranged to give their waitresses days off during the week so that they can be sure of their services on Sunday. One man wrote suggesting whether the fact that the waitresses were not continuously employed and did not work over fifty hours a week in the aggregate, would not exempt them from the operation of the law.

The department will probably secure an opinion on this section of the act owing to the many inquiries made about it.

WILSON DELAYS ACTION ON MEXICO

Is Not Ready to Take Up Situation With Congress.

WORD TO HUERTA NOT FINAL

President Declares No Time Has Been Set For Reply From Dictator and He Is Not Ready to Lift Embargo on Rebels' Arms.

Washington, Nov. 11. — President Wilson discussed the Mexican situation and cleared the atmosphere of many reports as to the intentions of the United States, in view of General Huerta's continued defiance of the American insistence that he give up control of affairs in Mexico City.

Among these reports were that drastic action to drive Huerta out, either armed intervention, lifting the embargo on arms and ammunition for the rebels, might be announced this week as the policy of the administration; that General Huerta had until Monday to resign, and that John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico, had recommended the prompt severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico.

President Wilson made it clear that he had no intention at present of addressing congress, because the situation was not in shape for him to have anything to say, and that while certain representations had been made to the Huerta government, no reply had been received. He declared that no time limit had been set for a reply from Huerta.

The president told inquirers that he was not ready to discuss recognition of the Constitutionalists, and that his opposition to raising the embargo on arms had not been changed.

Nevertheless it became known that the president has given consideration to raising the embargo on arms. In talks with senators he has asked their advice particularly on that point and has been advised by most of them to lift the embargo.

A copy of Huerta's note to the diplomats was received at the state department from O'Shaughnessy. Secretary Bryan would not comment upon it further than to say news dispatches from Mexico City described it accurately. As carried by the press dispatches, Huerta's statement is a direct defiance of the United States demand that he resign, and sets forth that he intends to seat the new congress, although the presidential elections will be declared void and a new election will be called.

Official advice signed by Foreign Minister Moheno received at the Mexican embassy say that the legislative power assumed by Huerta will be restored to congress Nov. 20.

Informal comment on Huerta's statement emphasized that, though the elections of the president and vice president were to be declared null and void, Huerta intended to consider the election of congress valid. By the Washington government that is regarded as an inconsistency of which foreign nations must take cognizance, and the impression prevailed that the repudiation of all the acts of the new congress would be forthcoming by the United States.

President Wilson made it plain that foreign governments had been fully advised within the last week of the steps taken by the United States, but that the future policy of the government was dependent on further developments.

In discussing the Mexican situation with newspaper men the president spoke especially against reports representing the situation as more serious than it really was. Sensational reports, he president pointed out, embarrassed his task of the administration, especially when those reports predicted moves in advance of action by the administration.

One official, familiar with the exchanges with Huerta, said the latest representations from Washington were not such as to place President Wilson in the attitude of having said the last word, if Huerta refused to abrogate.

It was said that the language of the representations did not directly call upon Huerta to resign, but made clear that, if he had the good of Mexico at heart and really desired that some government in Mexico City be recognized by the United States, he would retire from the situation.

The communication is also understood to have indicated that, if Huerta remained in power, the United States would repudiate all his acts, as well as those of the new congress.

Arsenal Working Overtime.

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—Although no special orders have been received from the war department since the Mexican situation became acute, the Franklin arsenal is at present working at top speed turning out shells and ammunition for siege and rapid fire guns, such as would probably be used in the event of a war with Mexico.

Air Rifle Bullet Kills Mother.

Kinston, N. Y., Nov. 11.—John Klem, twelve years old, the proud possessor of a new air rifle, was shooting at flies on the dining room wall, when his mother entered the room. As he shouted a warning she stepped in front of the weapon. The bullet entered her brain through the eye and she died.

WILSON GIVES ENGLAND VIEWS ON MEXICO

Will Not Recognize Huerta or Any of His Acts.

London, Nov. 11.—Walker H. Page, United States ambassador to England, presented verbally to the British foreign office another message from President Wilson.

The general effect of the communication is that in no circumstances will President Wilson recognize Provisional President Huerta or any of his acts.

President Wilson's first message was regarded in London as in the nature of an interim report, not calling for a reply.

Late Monday afternoon a cablegram was received at the British foreign office from Washington giving an outline of the policy expected to be followed by the United States in event of the continuance of Provisional President Huerta's present attitude. Complete reticence was observed by the officials of the foreign office as to the contents of the dispatch.

British officials are inclined to resent what they term the persistent misrepresentation of Great Britain's attitude current in the United States. They deny that any British money has been advanced to support Provisional President Huerta.

Inside was a sheet of yellow ruled paper without any writing and the money was fastened with a wire paper clip.

TRAINMEN WIN WAGE INCREASE

Are Granted 7 Per Cent. Raise, About Half of Demand.

AFFECTS ABOUT 100,000 MEN

Report of the Arbitration Board Is Made Public in New York, Ending Long Fight.

New York, Nov. 11.—The long-lived controversy between the railroads of the east and their conductors and trainmen over the latter's demands for more pay is ended.

The employees receive an increase in wages averaging seven per cent. and totaling $6,000,000 annually—about half what they wanted—from Oct. 1 last, effective for one year. One hundred thousand men will share in the increase.

Under the federal law, which governed the arbitration proceedings, the decision will be filed in New York in the United States district court.

The board of six arbitrators, two representing the railroads, two for the men and two "neutral," began their work in New York Sept. 11.

Thus ends, by arbitration under the Newlands amendment to the Erdman act, a controversy that threatened at one time to tie up by a strike the transportation facilities of all states east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio river.

The award of the arbitration commission, filed in the federal district court, is binding and final. The two board representatives of the employees filed a minority report in addition and the two representatives of the forty-one railroads a dissenting opinion.

In reaching its award the board ruled mainly against the employees on four out of five points submitted as reasons why the increase should be granted and found for them on the fifth—the increased cost of living. Since 1909, when last an increase was granted, the arbitrators found that the cost of living has increased seven per cent. Certain minor conditions embraced also were conceded to the employees. It was, therefore, more than a coincidence that the increase granted in wages is exactly the increase in the cost of living, as outlined by documents introduced by the employees.

"The board does not find its action entirely upon the increased cost of living," reads the award, a document of seventy-five printed pages, "though it looks upon this as basic."

FIGHTS THAW'S APPEAL

Counsel For New York Asks Dismissal of Habeas Corpus Suit.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 11.—A motion to dismiss the habeas corpus proceedings instituted by counsel for Harry K. Thaw was filed in the United States district court by Bernard Jacobs, representing the state of New York. No reasons for the desired action accompanied the motion.

It is expected that a preliminary hearing will be held in Concord early next week, at which arrangements will be made to consider the whole habeas corpus matter, including the amendment to Thaw's petition.

The habeas corpus proceedings were begun in the federal court soon after Thaw's arrest in New Hampshire and were suspended pending Governor Feltner's decision on the question of extradition. The governor on Saturday honored the requisition for extradition and the case was automatically transferred to the federal courts for action on the habeas corpus petition.

How He Got His Promotion

By F. A. MITCHEL

"I must get a message through to General N.," said General B. of the Japanese army to his staff during the war between Russia and Japan. "Can no one of you suggest some device by which I may do so? I have sent five couriers, and every one of them has been shot."

"Had we a balloon, general," said one, "we might succeed."

"A balloon would be riddled," replied the general.

"Has any one tried to go through in the night?" asked another.

"Yes, and failed. It is more difficult to pass at night than in the day time. In addition to running the risk of getting shot, a courier would almost surely be lost in the darkness."

"I will carry your message, general," said Lieutenant Kamura, a five foot youngster weighing some ninety pounds.

"By what means?"

"Horse."

"Horse! Most of our couriers have tried to get through in that way."

"They have not known how to be carried through an enemy's camp by a horse. I am an equestrian."

"And how will you ride?"

"In a way to avoid the observation of the enemy."

"Well, you may go inside the horse if you can get my message through."

"I have not yet decided just how I will ride. You know that the American Indians ride on one side of the horse, holding on by one hand and by one foot. If I could keep my enemy on my flank this plan might serve, but I am liable to be shot at from both sides."

"Give me your message, general, and when you see me start you will know all about it. I have great hopes of success."

"When will you start?"

"Tomorrow morning just before reveille. It will be after the hour when night attacks are expected and when the men except the guards are asleep."

The general gave orders that he should be called in time to see his aid start. In the morning when he went out before his tent he saw a horse standing there with no rider. But under the horse's belly was little Kamura, face downward, strapped to the animal with bands that were concealed by the horse's trappings. He looked out between the horse's fore legs and held the reins in his hand.

"Now I am ready, general," he said.

"Will you please tuck your message in my belt?"

The general did his part and, wishing his aid success, waited for the start. On Kamura's heels were spurs with sharp rowels, and he was free to kick with the lower part of his legs. A slight touch started the horse, and he made off, guided by the man under him, for the enemy's lines.

He had chosen an opportune time. The guards alone were awake. Kamura rode between two of them into the camp. Seeing a riderless horse coming, both these men ran aside to catch him, but by Kamura's skillful management and a liberal supply of spur the horse eluded them.

So far so good. Kamura guided the animal down a road with tents on either side. Here and there a man up and out before reveille saw a riderless horse coming through the camp, and some of those who were near tried to catch him. But it is not easy to catch a horse that does not wish to be caught, and when he has a guide provided with spurs it is much more difficult. Kamura ran the gantlet to the sentry line on the opposite side of the camp, where more efforts were made to catch him. A cavalryman gave chase, but the courier had the fleetest horse that could be found in the Japanese army, and on his heels were the sharpest spurs. He distanced his pursuer, and when some time later he rode up to the Japanese lines the horse's flanks were dripping blood.

The Japanese were as surprised as the Russians. They caught a wild horse and were congratulating themselves on their prize when a squeaky voice came from under his belly. "Take me to General N.'s headquarters."

But before doing that they unstrapped Kamura and put him on the animal instead of under him, then led him to their commander. Kamura took the message from under his belt and said, with the formality usual to soldiers on duty:

"General, I have the honor to hand you a message from General B."

"How did you get through from General B's camp?" asked General N.

"On foot?"

"No, general."

"On horseback?"

"No, general."

"By the shades of my ancestors! How did you come?"

"Horse belly."

"Horse belly! What do you mean?"

"I was strapped under the horse."

"What an idea! A splendid idea! You shall take a message back on—no, under horse belly."

And that's exactly what little Kamura did. He rode back through the Russian lines in the same way he had come and delivered the reply to General B, who embraced him, and when he had disengaged himself said:

"I shall send an account of your exploit to the war office at Tokyo and ask for your promotion to be captain at once."

And that's the way Lieutenant Kamura became a captain.

GRANGE REPRESENTATION.

Subject May Come Up Again at the Next National Meeting.

Will the question of proportional representation in the national grange come up again for discussion at the next meeting of the national body? Very likely. The fact is it is likely to form a subject of discussion there until some form of proportional representation is adopted. This is the resolution that was presented last year and voted down:

Resolved, That every state master and wife (or husband) shall have each one vote on all questions. On roll call every state master and wife (or husband) shall have one vote each and for each and every 10-60 members above the first 10,000 shall have one vote each additional.

There are two sides to this question of representation according to state membership. One side believes that the founders of the Order were wise in their adoption of state representation, giving each state an equal vote with every other, and they cite the fact that that system has worked well for these forty-six years. The other side holds that it is only fair to the membership of the order that voting strength be based on membership in the state. There are two or three counties in New York state each of which has more members than a half dozen of the western states combined, but a state with 1,000 members, for instance, has just as great voting strength as New York with 105,000 members. The resolution that was voted down at the last session called for state representation on all questions except when a roll call was ordered, then for membership representation. Will the next national meeting come any nearer solving this very perplexing problem?

GRANGERS PROTEST.

Oppose Centralizing of Power In New Jersey's Board of Education.

The New Jersey state grange and the subordinate granges, acting on their own motion, are protesting against what they call the centralization of school powers in the hands of the state board. Representatives of fifty granges met the state board of education and stated the reasons for their protesting against proposed action of the board. They believe in the principle of home rule in this matter. They object to the tenure of office act under which teachers who have had three years of continuous service cannot be removed except for cause. They hold that under this law teachers become arbitrary and it strips local districts of the powers that should rest in them. They also objected to the expense necessary to be incurred by the requirements of medical inspection. They believe that the local boards should determine in this matter.

The grangers further opposed the compulsory payment for transportation of high school students in the country and asked that it be abolished. They also asked that more attention be given to the education of farm boys. A fourth protest was against the state board's controlling the design, cost and erection of school buildings, forcing the farmers to pay for such buildings as the state board determined must be erected. The grangers understand that many of these matters are matters of law, but they contend that the state board should assist them in getting these laws modified or repealed. This is said to be the position of practically every subordinate grange in the state.

What Is Community Service?

At a lecturer's conference not long ago the question was asked, "What is your grange doing in the line of community service?" Of the dozen or more granges represented not one could report doing or having done any distinctive service for the community where located. Several said there did not seem to be anything they could do, and others had enough to do in keeping themselves in good running condition. But surely the grange that confines all its efforts to improving its members' condition, irrespective of others outside its gates, is not fulfilling its entire mission. The grange that serves its community best serves itself best, and the good deed done for others reacts upon it for its own good. Ask those who have performed some altruistic service for their community if this is not so.

Stock raisers of Wisconsin are being warned against allowing their young cattle to run in pastures where they will have access to acorns. The eating of these is assigned as the cause of a number of cases of poisoning that have been reported to the state veterinarian. In case of acorn poisoning a half pint of linseed oil with strong coffee is recommended, and to this it is suggested that a pint of molasses be added. This remedy should be given every eight hours.

The above is a copy of our advertisement away back in 1908—the prediction that "if would pay to buy now and hold for advances" has been more than realized—the lots offered then at $5.50 and $6.00 have since been resold by the then purchasers at $9.00 and $10.00 front foot!—in a number of in-

The industrial development of the town, especially at the East end—the promise of unusual business activity in 1914—surely will make an increased demand for homes, and therefore for building lots—Now is the time to buy, before prices are advanced—an increase in demand will be followed by an increase in prices, in building lots as in all other commodities for sale—hence buy now! to-day!

Installment Plan Prices Same as Cash Prices

Unusual features of our $40,000 of deferred payment plan sales are—that by far the larger portion of the sales were made to parties looking for good investments, and comparatively small portion to young men and women out of their weekly earnings with a view to owning their own homes—also a large proportion of the houses erected on these lots were erected on lots bought from the original purchasers at a good advance in prices.

Only one dollar a week on a 30 foot front lot, no cash advance payment! No Taxes!

Save 15 cents a day out of the money spent uselessly, and buy a lot, later on build a home and stop paying rent.

Have also for sale now the fine lots fronting on Fairfield road near the Gettysburg borough line—both sides of road—these lots lie up nicely above the street grade and will require no filling and but little grading—they front on a U. S. Battlefield Commission road which will always be a good road—and the entire distance to the borough sidewalks is of macadam construction, thus insuring good walking and driving always.

While these lots are in Cumberland Township yet we expect to arrange for borough water and borough light—these lots are conveniently located for town churches and schools.

The first buyers buy the best lots—those who buy six months or a year later buy the second choice and pay quite as much as those who buy first—later by the first purchasers at a nice advance in price—hence NOW is the time to buy.

These lots will not be sold on the weekly installment plan but will be sold on terms easy enough for anyone.

THE EFFECTIVENESS OF FUR AS A TRIMMING

Polero effects are very modish again. Some of them are sleeveless, being worn with an underblouse of sheer material—others, as shown in 7714, have the drop-shoulder and a full or three-quarter length sleeve.

One has not to be told of the beauties of fur as a trimming, for nothing is richer or softer. A collar of fur framing the face is most becoming. Fur is not only seen on the heavy dress or suit for winter street wear, but a strip outlines the décolletage of the evening gown as well, a line may be seen on the sleeves and neck of the filmy net blouse and the blouse of linen also has its bit.

A dull red velours de laine is used with 7714, collared and cuffed in black fox and having a banding of fox at the hem. The belted-in "bib" on the front of the blouse is of brightly colored embroidery. This frock shows a five pointed skirt slightly draped in front and a normal waist-line.

To copy this design in size 36 it requires 5 yards of 42 inch velours de laine with 5/8 yard of embroidery. No. 7714—sizes 34 to 42. Each pattern 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.

Hobey Baker of Princeton is some football crackjack we all know, and he is a good sprinter and an effective hockey player as well.

As soon as the gridiron season is over Hobey will polish his skates and start in pursuit of the elusive puck.

Cochran, to Build Defender.

Alex Smith Cochran will take up single handed his part of the defense of the America's cup. The Yonkers (N. Y.) sportsman, who for nine years has been a member of the New York Yacht club, has commissioned William Gardner to design a seventy-five foot sloop yacht to take part in the trial races. Mr. Gardner has designed many fast racing yachts, and the only condition imposed by Mr. Cochran is that he shall not accept an order from any other yachtman or syndicate to design another sloop for the same purpose.

No limit is placed on the amount to be expended for the new boat, the orders being to produce the fastest yacht possible under the present rule of the New York Yacht club. The builder of the yacht has not been announced.

Mr. Cochran is by no means a novice in the racing of fast yachts. He had the schooner Westward designed and built for him by Herreshoff in 1910. This yacht crossed the ocean and defeated the best boats in England and Germany. After winning the Kaiser's cup at Cowes the Westward came here, raced for one season and then was sold to a German yachtman.

NOTABLES IN THE LIMELIGHT

Congressman William C. Adamson of Georgia.

Congressman William C. Adamson of Georgia, chairman of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, has given his best efforts to promoting the completion of the Panama canal. Since the inception of the plan to construct a waterway across the isthmus he has been indefatigable in aiding by legislation the great work of connecting the eastern and western oceans. Now that the canal is practically finished he believes that its builders should be fittingly recognized.

For many years Mr. Adamson has been a member of the interstate and foreign commerce committee, becoming its chairman when the Democratic party won its way to power. He is a native of the state he represents and is serving his ninth term as a member of the national house. In early life he was a farm hand and teamster, finally accumulating enough money to take the collegiate course at Bowdon college. Later he studied law and in 1876 was admitted to the bar, hanging out his shingle at Carrollton. From 1885 to 1889 he was judge of the city court of Carrollton, having previously been city attorney. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth congress and has since been regularly returned to represent his district, most of the time without opposition.

Mrs. Pankhurst, Suffragist.

The invasion of the United States by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the noted militant suffragist of England, has apparently had little effect on the "votes for women" propaganda on this side of the water. Her initial reception at Madison Square Garden, New York city, was wholly devoid of spectacular interest, and, while she was warmly welcomed by some of the suffragist leaders, others were conspicuous by their absence. Mrs. Pankhurst has twice before visited this country on woman suffrage campaigns and on each occasion was extended every courtesy by the leaders of the movement.

Mrs. Pankhurst was born in Manchester and educated in Paris under radical influences. In 1879 she was married to Dr. Pankhurst, a member of the original woman's suffrage society founded by John Stuart Mill, the economist. Throughout the eighties Mrs. Pankhurst was on the executive committee of the society. When her husband died in 1899 she went into business. She served as registrar of births and deaths in Manchester and was twice elected to the national council of the Independent Labor party. In 1903 she organized the Woman's Social and Political union. She has two daughters, Christabel and Sylvia, both of whom are ardent advocates and workers for woman suffrage.

LONDON'S NEW LORD MAYOR
Sir T. Vansittart Bowater Takes Oath of Office Amid Regal Display.
London, Nov. 11.—Sir T. Vansittart Bowater was installed lord mayor of the city of London with all the solemnity and display that ancient custom demands. The oath was administered to the new lord mayor by the new lord chief justice, Sir Rufus Isaacs. The civic authority of the lord mayor of the city of London extends over a resident population of less than 20,000, the greater part of the territory of the city proper being covered with warehouses and business offices. London has twenty-eight other boroughs, each with its own mayor.

VALUE OF CORN CROP
BREAKS ALL RECORDS
Although Smallest Since 1903,
It is the Most Valuable.

Washington, Nov. 11.—This year's corn crop promises to be the most valuable this or any other nation ever has produced, although the department of agriculture's preliminary estimate of production indicates it will be more than half a billion bushels less in size than the record crop of last year, and the smallest since 1903. Based on the department's figures of 70.7 cents per bushel, the average farm value on Nov. 1, the crop, as now estimated, is worth $1,741,253,019, while the value of the 1912 record crop was $1,520,454,000. The previous most valuable crop was that of 1909, when it was worth $1,652,822,000. Details of the report follow:
Corn—Total production, 2,463,017,000 bushels, compared with 3,124,746,000 last year. Yield per acre, 23.9 bushels, compared with 29.2 last year, and 27.9 bushels, the ten-year average.

FREE BEILIS IN RITUAL MURDER
Jury Finds Jew Innocent of Slaying Christian Boy.
NOV/ FEAR A MASSACRE

Verdict Causes Great Excitement in Kiev, and Soldiers Are Patrolling the Streets.
Kiev, Russia, Nov. 11.—Mendel Beilis, a Jew, was acquitted by the jury in the so-called "ritual murder" case. Beilis was accused of slaying a Christian boy, named Andrew Yushchinsky, two years ago. The trial was begun Oct. 8 last. The government was compelled to take precautions to prevent an anti-Jewish uprising in the event of acquittal and Kiev was full of soldiers when the verdict was given. News of the acquittal caused great excitement throughout Kiev. Troops were kept moving through all of the streets as the representatives of the "Black Hundred," an anti-Jewish organization, threatened a pogrom, or massacre, if Beilis was acquitted. Hundreds of peasants, who had come to Kiev for the end of the trial, shouted out their denunciations of the verdict. The Jews remained indoors and many of them barricaded their houses. It is estimated that several thousand Jews have left Kiev since the trial began, fearing a massacre in the case of an acquittal. Beilis will probably go to America to live. The trial of Beilis aroused greater interest throughout the world than any other criminal trial since the Dreyfus case in France, because of the religious and racial elements injected into it by the Russian government. Beilis was in prison for two years, during which time he was subjected from time to time to the "third degree," with all the traditional severity of the Russian police. He remained steadfast in his protestations of innocence, and his last words when the case went to the jury were: "I am innocent of any crime."

THE trial of Beilis, a Russian of the Hebrew faith, for the alleged murder for purposes of "blood ritual" of Andrew Yushchinsky, a Christian lad, began on Oct. 8. The mutilated body of the boy Yushchinsky was discovered on March 25, 1911, in a cave on a suburban holding outside Kiev. The hands were bound behind the back and there were forty-seven wounds on the body. Beilis was shortly afterward arrested and charged with the murder and was kept in close confinement until the trial. It was alleged that the blood of the boy was used in a Jewish ceremony. Medical men gave various opinions as to the reasons for the crime. Other witnesses threw suspicion on a woman, Vera Tcheberiak, alleged to be the harbinger of a band of criminals.

HAYWOOD CONVICTION VOID
N. J. Supreme Court Sets Aside Sentence Imposed on I. W. W. Leader.
Trenton, N. J., Nov. 11.—The state supreme court set aside the conviction of William Haywood, Industrial Workers of the World leader, who with two others was convicted on a charge of being disorderly in connection with the strike of the Paterson, N. J., silk workers. The other men involved are Carlo Trezza and Adolph Leisig. The men were sentenced to serve six months in jail. The opinion of the supreme court, in a decision read by Justice Bergen, holds the mere fact that a person walking along the public streets in a peaceable and quiet manner, is followed by a crowd of people, is not sufficient to justify his conviction for being a disorderly person.

VINCENT ASTOR'S PLANS
Likely to Make Ferncliffe at Rhinebeck His Permanent Home.
Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 11.—The indications are that Vincent Astor, whose engagement to Miss Helen Dinmore Huntington was announced last week, will keep Ferncliffe open until the holidays, if not all winter. It is also said that the Huntington home, Hopeland House, Staatsburg, will also remain open most of the winter. From the extensive alterations at Ferncliffe it is thought that Mr. Astor means to make his permanent home at Rhinebeck.

American Suffragette III in London.
London, Nov. 11.—Miss Zelle Emerson, the American suffragette, of Jackson, Mich., is seriously ill from concussion of the brain, the result of injuries received in a riot Nov. 5. She presided at a meeting at which it was pronounced that a volunteer corps was to be organized for the protection of the militant suffragettes. Miss Sylvia Pankhurst was present, and when the police tried to arrest her a fight with sticks and clubs took place. In the battle Miss Emerson was knocked down by a blow on the head.
Vermont Savings Tax Upheld.

DESTROYS STOCK OF DRINKS
Nanticoke Saloonkeeper, Converted, Cumps Beer and Whisky In Gutter.
Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 11.—George Borman, for many years a successful saloonkeeper in Nanticoke, has embraced Christianity. To celebrate the change he has publicly burned his liquor license, destroyed his stock of beer and whisky by dumping it in the streets and refusing several big offers for his business. Borman's conversion has cost him about $3000. Matthew Borman, his brother, recently became a member of the First Methodist church of Nanticoke, and since then he has been trying to get the saloonkeeper interested in church work. George attended several church meetings and declares he saw a new light. He became a Methodist convert and decided to make a complete change in his life. His first step was to pull down the blinds of his saloon and to lock the doors. Then he knocked in the heads of the beer kegs and dumped the contents, together with whisky and wine, into the gutter. Then Borman publicly burned his license after several men offered to buy him out. Borman declares he starts a Christian life by knocking out one of the 1500 licenses in Luzerne county.

LABOR FEDERATION IN YEARLY MEETING
Convention Hears Reports of Growth in Membership.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 11.—Declaring that "the trade movement has become the greatest factor in the lives of the masses of American people because of its practical idealism," the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, in submitting its annual report to the international convention of that body, congratulates the delegates on the steady growth of the organization which, it declares, has passed the 2,000,000 mark and is well on its way toward a new goal—the 3,000,000 mark. The report of the council includes the statements of the president, secretary and treasurer and the heads of the various departments. The secretary's report shows that the total receipts were $244,292.04 and the total expenses $258,702.88. During the year ended Sept. 30, 1913, 322 charters were issued to national and international, central, local trade and federal labor unions. Reports from the secretaries of ninety-eight national and international organizations show that 2682 charters were issued and 1348 surrendered. The gain in membership reported by sixty-six international organizations was 295,695. Reports from sixty-eight national and international organizations and local unions affiliated with the Federation show that there were 999 strikes, in which 294,236 workers were involved. Of that number 186,644 were benefited. The total costs of the strikes reported was $3,345,721.43. In addition $118,454.48 was donated by unions to other unions, making a grand total of $3,464,175.91 expended to sustain members on strike. Death benefits amounted to $1,985,892.83 and death benefits to members' wives, $58,420. The total in sick benefits was $816,336.41. Train Kills Family In Snowstorm.
North Judson, Ind., Nov. 11.—A father and his two children were hurled to death by a Chicago-bound Erie passenger train here. No intimation of the tragedy was had by the engineer of the flyer until it reached Crown Point, Ind., nearly forty miles away. There bits of red-stained cloth on the pilot told the story. The blinding snowstorm prevented the engineer from seeing their carriage.

New Baseball Deal?

In Philadelphia was circulated a story that Connie Mack of the Athletics had traded Outfielder James Walsh to the New York Americans as part of a deal by which Frank Chance sent Claude Derrick to the Baltimore club, partly owned by Mack, last year. When President Farrell of the New York Americans was asked about the supposed deal he declared that, while he hadn't actually signed papers that would make Walsh his property, something might come of it later on.

"The report is a trifle premature," said Farrell, "and I only wish that I could confirm it. It is true that last summer when Chance let Derrick go to the Baltimore club he asked Mack to let him have an outfielder, one of six then wearing Athletic uniforms. Mack at first couldn't see it, but as he needed Derrick in Baltimore he finally named three players from whom Chance could make a selection, and Walsh was among them."

Wrestler Mahmout Killed by Bandits.

Yussif Mahmout, a Bulgarian wrestler, who met a number of American men, including Frank Gotch, by whom he was defeated, was killed by a band of Bulgarian bandits in the mountains near Silistria, his home, according to a story told by two Turkish wrestlers who arrived in Chicago recently.

Mahmout was a petty officer in the Bulgarian army during the late war and, according to their story, went to the town to draw some money to pay off the men in his command. Sixteen bandits, learning the purpose of his trip, waylaid him on his return, but because Mahmout had procured only orders instead of gold coin they killed him.

In the Federal League.

The Federal leaguers claim that Tommy Leach, Roger Bresnahan, George Stovall and Wilbert Robinson will manage teams in the outlaw circuit. Bresnahan has a three years' contract with the Cubs at $10,000 a year. Robinson couldn't be hired to leave his old pal, John McGraw, and the Giants. Leach may not remain with Evers because of advancing years, while Stovall's threatened defection will not cause an earthquake in St. Louis.

Not only from the standpoint of the welfare of the boy, but as well from the standpoint of the welfare of the farm and the boy's subsequent interest in it, it is a mighty shortsighted policy to scrip his schooling for the benefit of the few dollars that may be got out of his labor as a result. It is all too little schooling the average boy gets at best, and the least his father can do is to see that he is in school every day that it is possible for him to be so long as the boy is interested in his work and making the most of his time.

There is little choice from the standpoint of humanity between the man who keeps a horse until it becomes nearly useless and then sells it to some hard hearted brute who will while the last breath of life out of it in an effort to get it to do a few dollars' worth more work, and the latter, who is directly responsible for the poor animal's death. When a horse arrives at the point where to work it further is sheer cruelty the humane man will mercifully shoot it, if he cannot afford to provide shelter and food for it until it dies.
